DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-2, 4, 13, 15, 17-18 and 20-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Fruhauf et al. (USP 5,291,139).

Figure 1 shows a detection circuit for indicating a blown state or un-blown state of a fuse under detection, comprising a fuse detection circuit part having a fuse under detection (fus1), the fuse detection circuit part producing a fuse detection voltage corresponding to a detection current in the fuse under detection, a reference circuit part for generating a reference voltage (ref2), the reference circuit part having a reference fuse (fus2) substantially identical to the fuse under detection in its un-blown state, and the reference voltage being between a fuse detection voltage corresponding to an un-blown state of the fuse under detection and a fuse detection voltage corresponding of a blown stage of the fuse under detection (vref2 is between vref1(unblown) and 0 volt (blown), thereby distinguishing the blown state from the un-blown state, a comparator (COMP) as called for in claims 1, 13, 18 and 20.

Regarding claims 2 and 15, figure 1 shows respective transistors (Tf1, Tf2) receiving a fuse detection enable signal (B).

Regarding claims 4, 17 and 22, the reference fuse and the fuse under detection are similar and are inherently having substantially lay out on a circuit board.

Regarding claim 21, since the reference fuse and the fuse under detection are similar thus they are manufactured with the same process steps.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 3, 5-9, 14, 16 and 19 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

4. Claims 10-12 are presently allowed.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. In this regard, applicant's cited prior art has been carefully considered.
